School Seal

The words Vita, Dulcedo, Spes are the Latin words for "our life, our sweetness, and our hope," and are found in the prayer Hail, Holy Queen. The crown symbolizes our Lady's coronation as Queen of Heaven and earth. The two lilies symbolize our humble, silent Saint Joseph, model of devout Christian family life. The open book of wisdom represents knowledge. The broken chains refer to one of the titles of Our Blessed Mother, Our Lady of Ransom. Clouds scattered throughout the seal symbolize eternal life, the goal of all Catholic education.

May the school seal be a reminder to the graduates of 1962, and to every graduate of Saint Mary High School that Mary, their Mother, our Mother, is "our life, our sweetness, and our hope."

I Think That I Shall Never See

A Poem Lovely As A Tree

(Joyce Kilmer)

The Sisters of Mercy Convent, Caven Street, was originally the Sacred Heart School erected in 1881. This school was started in 1881 because the Sisters had the need for a Catholic high school for girls. This building was used as a school until 1912 when the present Saint Mary's Academy Building was erected.

Through the courtesy of Major Edward Fleming the Sisters and the girls toured the Pease Air Force Base. Here they pose under one of the Jets.

Driver's Training? No, only Carol ably assisted by Diane trying to parallel park. Traffic directors are Emily and Martha.

There is no dearth of cars around Saint Mary's.

Cheryl tries out some new curlers on Claire's hair.

Rachel has either told a good story to Karen or pulled her hair. Which was it?

Sheila, assisted by the Badminton players, tries to retrieve a lost ball.

Deanne Lessard, Linda Jacques and Denise Poitras arrange the bulletin board to remind everyone of First Friday.

Another group, Mary Moore, Joan Folger, Sandra MacDonald and Claire Goupil remind everyone of Our Lady's Day, First Saturday.

Our New York Trip

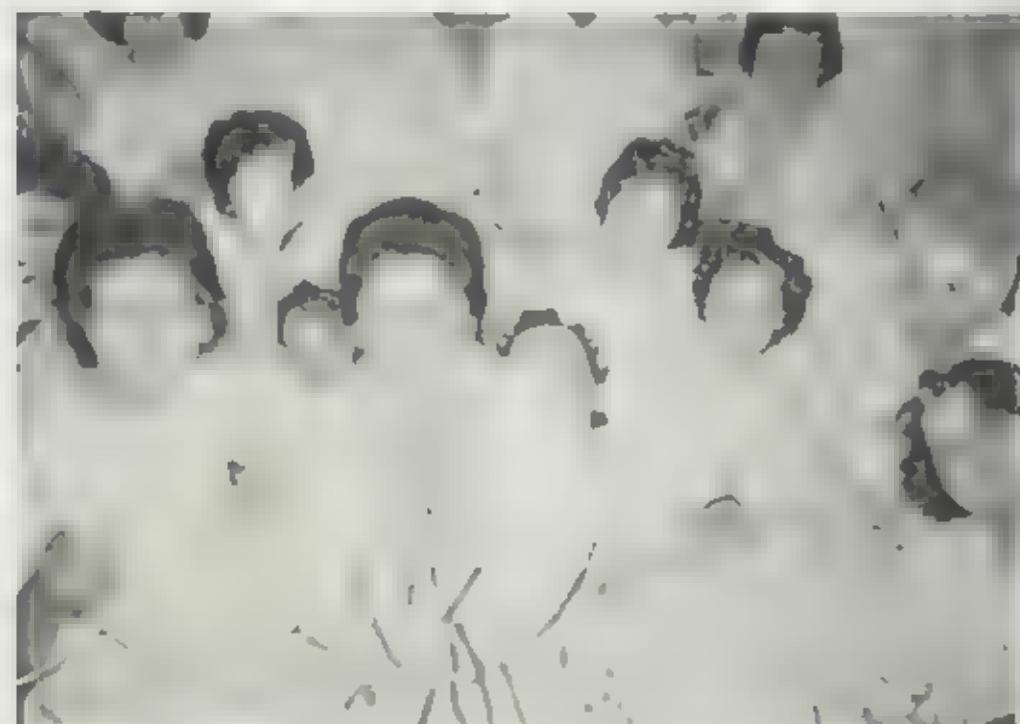

Father Horan checks to see if all the girls are on the bus before they start for their sightseeing tour of New York.

The Avenue of Flags presented a beautiful sight against the modern UN building.

Theresa as a modern Barbara Fretchie.

Is the price cheaper if there are more than three in a room? Ask the Seniors.

Jane eats lunch with two members of the International House.

Father Horan and Father Lennon pose in the Chinese gift shop.

Buddha's shrine caught the eye of one of the Senior photographers.

A view of New York from the air

This picturesque view of New York was caught by one of the Seniors.

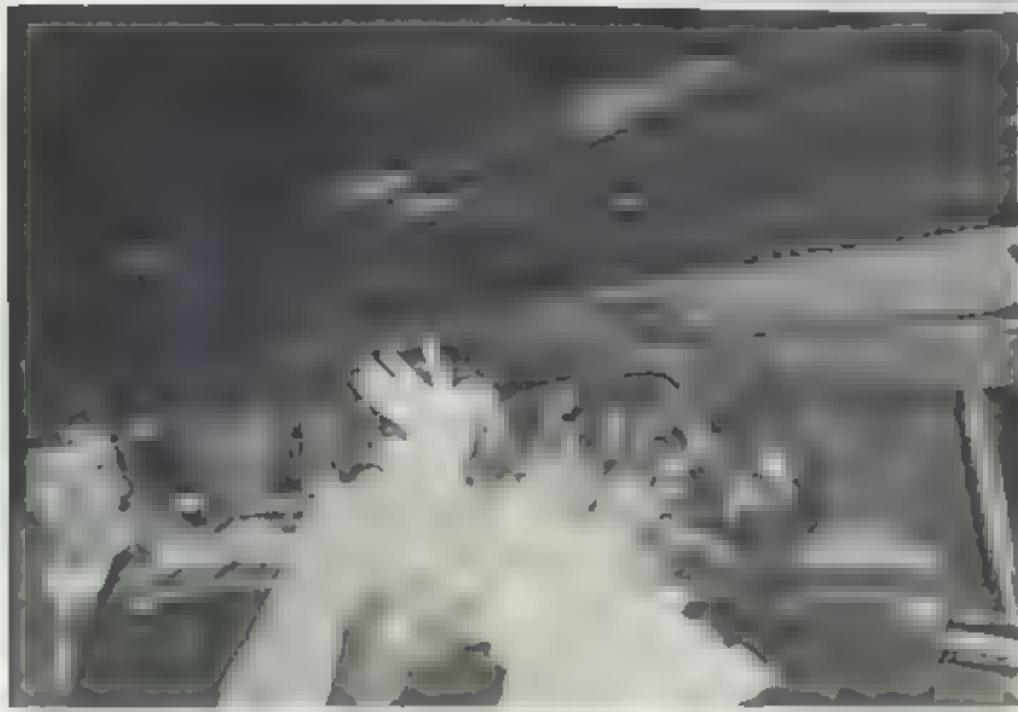

Mary Dobbins, left, and Jane Cavanaugh right, are fascinated by the Chinese seal.

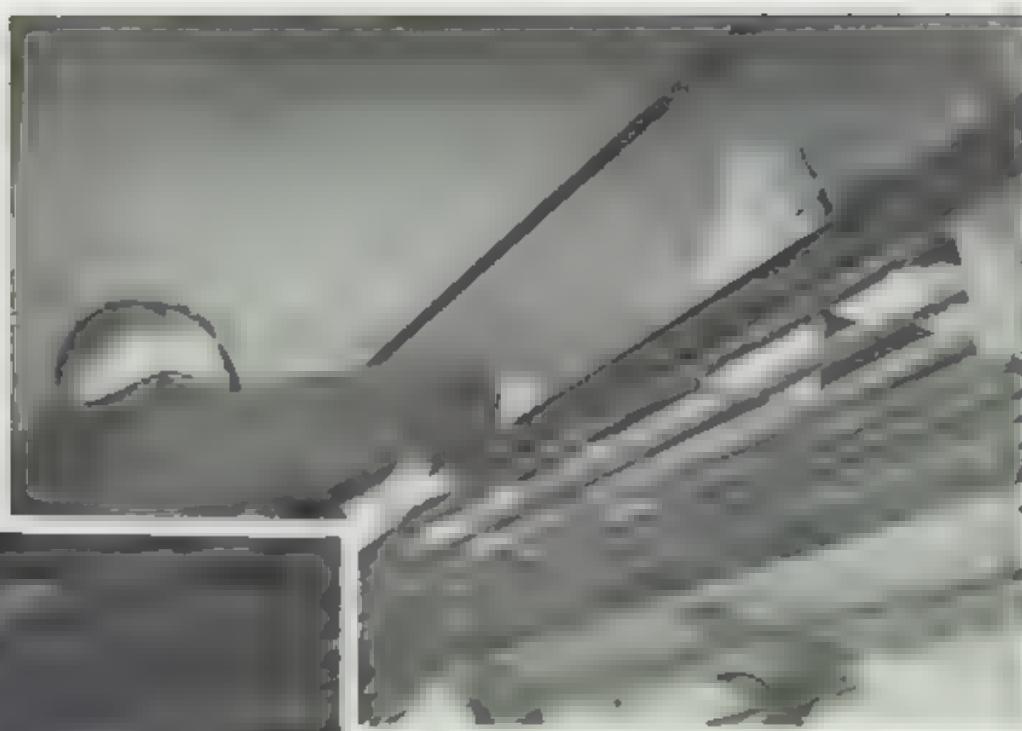

The one who really looks tired is Nancy
LEFT TO RIGHT: Rachel Girard, Kathy Egan, Patty
Duffy and Diane Floto.

All good things have to come to an end--the girls wait patiently for the bus for the return trip.

Father Lennon adjusts some of the luggage on the rack.

It looks as though the girls were carrying a goodly part of New York back home with them.

Diane Floto proudly shows the plaques that she won at the Montgomery Prize Speaking Contest which was held at Colby College. Diane received first place awards in both original oratory and in extemporaneous speaking.
